

O. KLEINER AG invests in the latest production Digital Printing Technology

O. KLEINER AG will bring on stream this summer the latest in state of the art production digital printing presses: the Hewlett Packard Indigo WS6600.

The machine offers following advantages:

- speed has doubled
- optimised ink system
- simplified production and set up processes

With this new press, O. KLEINER AG has invested in the very latest proven digital printing technology and has again shown its technical pioneering spirit. The company can bring 10 years of experience in digital printing for the Packaging Industry to this new machine generation. Other printing systems shown at DRUPA 12 will need further development time before being ready for industrial use. O. KLEINER AG is continually observing all developments in the field and will take further steps as the market develops, to offer its customers the best in up to date technology.
